

Minimal percent of node swaps required to reach empirical misperception range

